I'm running for City Council because San Leandro needs thoughtful, informed leaders who value the input of residents and embrace our rich diversity. I possess these qualities. I have the technology background and business expertise to bring in more high technology-focused companies and help make San Leandro a center for innovation. These new businesses will produce good-paying jobs and revenue to support our libraries, improved roads, parks, community centers, and public safety. With City Hall on better financial footing, I'll work to reduce income inequality and ensure that San Leandro remains an affordable city for seniors and working families. We can lift up San Leandro by raising the minimum wage. I respect and value public service. For eight years I have served on the School Board and my daughters attend our public schools. My commitment to education is unparalleled. I hired the dynamic, new Superintendent who is transforming our schools. We built a beautiful performing arts center, eliminated overcrowding at the high school, and renovated our schools. As Councilmember, I will collaborate with our schools and support student and youth programs. I'm proud to have the endorsement of Labor, teachers, parents, and neighbors. Together, let's make San Leandro a safe, vibrant, sustainable city.
